Re: Sigh - another sin binning - Appeal

Hello Dom and thank you for investing so much time in your PM but not taking that precious time to actually answer the question (of course it is unanswerable).

I can't believe that there's not a good and fair person among any of you.

From the moment I joined, I was vilified by your members and staff alike. Then I was accused by an insane admin of a vendetta against Fengtao – yes, a vendetta. I am banned for commenting in open threads and again for agreeing to do what a mod asks. I am told by an equally brainless admin that I may not make appeals – even though the forum rules say that is what I should do.

It seems there is one set of rules for people you like and another for the ones you want to have a free shot at.
 You should all be ashamed of yourselves.

I understand that this PM will be ignored. Well done.

Regards

Your issue has been discussed with many staff members which also brought the enormous amount of replies you've already received and you are demanding. I hope you will understand that there is only a limit amount of time available to deal with each individual on our forums. We work with volunteers that rather spend their time on something fun that someone continuously demanding attention for their feeling of unfairness.

I think our staff has already invested a lot of time in you while you continue to demand more explanation and appeals, sometimes it's just better to go with the flow instead of continuously banging your head against the wall, I think this is where you are the moment and I would advise to follow the instructions of staff members and leave the case as it is.

You will probably find that this will save a lot of time and annoyance for each of us involved.

I will not go into any further discussion with you. Any other PM regarding this issue will be ignored. Unfortunately it has come this far.

Regards,

Dear Dom,

I have been sinbinned by, what I believe to be an overzealous moderator, imkidd57, for making comments in this thread.

<http://club.cdfreaks.com/f116/dvdfab...-drive-247814/>

I was told by imkidd57 to respect the moderators and I responded in a now deleted post by saying "As you wish" (i.e. agreeing to do what he said) and adding that I wouldn't be assisting the OP until he clarified the position and hoping he would do so.

This resulted in me being sin binned!

May I lodge an appeal over this please?

As an aside, I would also ask imkidd57 to be respectful of me. This post is insulting.

Regards

Dom. I wonder how you can? Like what exactly did I do? I agreed with the mod. How is that wrong? Do I not have a right to post? If no more posting was allowed in the thread, then it should have been closed. But do I not have a right to speak here? And anyway, can you please explain what exactly did I say in that deleted post that was wrong? I think I deserve some explanation.

C'mon now - how about a bit of fairness instead of vindictiveness and victimisation. Don't you feel there's just a little bit of bias against me here?

I again ask you to reconsider your staff's actions.

Regards
